Professor Dr. Jens Gal, Maître en droit is entrusted with a Chair for European Insurance Law with a main focus on Insurance Supervisory Law at the University of Frankfurt, Germany. Prof. Gal finished his legal studies in Frankfurt and Lyon, France and passed the First and Second States Exam in the state of Hesse. He has been a regular lecturer at the Institute for Law and Finance in Frankfurt since 2006 and at the University Lumière II in Lyon since 2007. Gal's scientific focus is largely on issues of insurance contract law and insurance supervisory law but also on international private law and the law of civil procedure with a main interest on arbitration matters. Gal is, inter alia, a member of the interdisciplinary International Center for Insurance Regulation (ICIR) and of the scientific advisory board of the Association for the Advancement of Teaching of Insurance Matters of the University of Frankfurt and he is the current secretary of the German chapter of the Association Internationale de Droit des Assurances (AIDA).
